

The site plan shows a large rectangular building footprint with a central courtyard. The building is divided into several sections, with different colors indicating different building types or phases. The central courtyard is paved and contains a small structure. Surrounding the building are parking lots with individual parking spaces marked. The plan also shows adjacent streets, including 10th Street to the north and 11th Street to the south. A north arrow is located in the upper right corner of the plan.

A detailed architectural floor plan of a building, oriented vertically. The plan shows a complex arrangement of rooms, corridors, and service areas. A specific section of the plan, located in the lower-middle part of the building, is highlighted in red. This red-shaded area appears to be a large, open space, possibly a common area or a specific functional zone. The rest of the plan is in black and white, showing various rooms, some with furniture like desks and chairs, and others with equipment like sinks and stoves. The building has a central corridor system connecting different wings.
